Mr. Packham told the story of the hold-up to The Bulletin after coming off duty Tuesday night. "I was driving a red and white sign car on 114 avenue at 82 street when the trouble came off the wire. "I did the unexpected, getting on the spur of the moment, and took the car out of the line, getting him in the stomach. Then I slipped on the slope near the track and fell near the gun. I got up with it in my hand, and pointing it at the two men I said, 'Now stick 'em up!'"

BERLIN JEWS MAKE APPEAL TO ROOSEVELT

100,000 Seeking Temporary Refuge in United States

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—An appeal to President Roosevelt to help German Jews by offering 100,000 of them temporary refuge in United States was published today by the Juedisches Nachrichtenblatt, only remaining Jewish organ.

Simultaneously several German newspapers assured their readers an anti-Jewish campaign in Russia had only just started, that the anti-Semitic iron guard organization there was stronger than ever and that Cornelius Zeles Codreanu, iron guard leader who was shot dead by Rumanian guards November 30 would be avenged.

The Juedisches Nachrichtenblatt called its plan "constructive" and said other nations "would certainly follow suit" if the United States took the lead by giving 100,000 of Germany's 500,000 Jews a haven for a time.

Reports from Vienna said 3,000 Jewish boys between four and 15 years would be permitted to leave for England and the Netherlands Thursday on special trains provided by the Jewish cultural organization. Yesterday 600 Jewish children left Vienna for the Netherlands. Most of them later will go to England. Some will remain in the Netherlands for instruction in farming and handicrafts.

Jews Ordered to Wear Yellow Badge

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—Jews doing compulsory labor on construction jobs in Germany, near Vienna, were ordered today to wear on their right arms a yellow badge similar to the badge worn by Jews in the middle ages.

The order was issued by Joseph Buechel, Nazi commissioner of Austria, to avoid "contamination" of Aryans who really have been put to work with the Jews.

Garmersdorf is a half-hour's street car ride from Vienna. The Jews are permitted from Saturday noon to Monday morning to visit their families in Vienna.

Meanwhile, Vienna police have been quietly rounding up all Jewish postage stamp dealers in the city. They have been placed in concentration camps and their stamps, estimated at 3,000,000 marks (about $1,200,000), have been confiscated.

Sixty per cent of Vienna's postage stamp trade had been in Jewish hands.

It was her lifelong custom to have coffee and cake each morning on rising, followed by breakfast, mid-morning coffee, then dinner with coffee and cake or doughnuts in the mid-afternoon, then supper—a heavy diet schedule but "Grandma" seemed to thrive on it.

She is survived by Mrs. C. Nelson and Mrs. T. E. Prouty of Comrey, daughters, a son John of Comrey, Glad Peterson of Prince Albert and Peter Peterson of Wisconsin. Her other posterity, grand children and great grandchildren, are numerous.

Average Female Starts Hunt For Man At Age 15

BERKLEY, Cal. Dec. 7.—The average female of the species starts her "man-hunt" at the age of 15, University of California psychologists said today.

From a study of behaviorism of 350 junior high school students, they found that at 12 girls are enthusiastic—most are friendly with no definite thought of later romanticism—most are friendly. But within three years, they begin to show aggressive tendencies and from then on the quest for a male is the paramount issue in their lives.

Researchers said that boys of 15, meanwhile, were unaware of the attitude of their girl companions. But they did begin to pay attention to such details as touching their hair, and occasionally shining their shoes.

HONG KONG, Dec. 7.—The Chinese Central News Agency reported last night Chinese machine gunners had turned back an estimated Japanese landing at Pakhoi, Western Kweichow province.

Not Wanted

Mr. J. F. Sanderson, Canadian Press correspondent at London, is not a professional or habitual fun-maker, and there is certainly nothing jokesome in the position to which Czechoslovakia has been reduced. But there is a trace of grim humor in the following paragraph, in which he reflects current opinion in London regarding that maltreated country:

"There is a growing feeling here Czechoslovakia will consider territorial guarantees by Germany and Italy sufficient and will never ask Great Britain and France to add theirs. This might be due through German pressure, indicating Germany does not want Great Britain and France involved in southeastern Europe. The Czech Government probably would do as Germany wished."

It "probably" would and will for several reasons, at least. One is that it does not want to. Another, equally effective, is that British and French guarantees are rated as being worth exactly nothing in that part of the world since the Munich affair. Czechoslovakia has become an economic annex and a political vassal of Germany. The word of Hitler is the only thing that counts in it. In fact, he isn't asking Britain and France to sit in judgment on the way he keeps that word.

Winnipeg Tries It Out

Winnipeg is experimenting with the trolley bus, and according to the Tribune finds it something more than a merely acceptable substitute for the street car. The day bus made its appearance happened to be the coldest of the season thus far and the new carrier "came through with flying colors". The Tribune adds, meaningfully, "The trolley bus has been well received and smooth running, and it has the attributes of silent operation." It runs quietly 'sneaks up the praise of Winnipeggers who see a day ahead when there will be no grinding of street cars in the night, no roar of motor buses."

Winnipeg street cars can't be inferred as audible to the point of being obtrusive, like those in Edmonton. In which case it can be understood that the wondering Winnipeggers noted the unwonted silence of the motor bus as chief among its attractions. Denizens of Edmonton's streets and office buildings will be glad to hear of it when they can share their sense of relief.

The experiment is not over yet. It remains to be seen how the trolley bus will behave when it encounters some real Winnipeg winter weather, with snow-piled streets and forty below temperature. If it holds up under these conditions, Winnipeg people need have no misgivings. Any vehicle that can keep going satisfactorily in a Winnipeg winter needs no further proof of its hardihood.

Repeat-Paying Not Popular

Western cities are getting interest-free, for good and sufficient reasons. The difficulties they run into because they could not pay interest and running expenses in the depression years have created a new and healthy consciousness of the desirability of keeping clear of such obligations so far as they can be avoided in the future. And it is being found they can be avoided in all cases except where a really heavy immediate expenditure is necessary. Few of these cities are submitting money bylaws to their burgesses now; fewer still of the bylaws are being approved.

Moore Jaw has accordingly drawn some attention because its council submitted a bylaw to borrow $45,000 with which to extend the sewer system. The Regina Leader-Post points out that borrowing this sum for fifteen years would cost the city $100,000 in interest. It is interesting to observe that some cities are trying to get on a pay-as-you-go basis, doing without improvements until they can pay for them. It might have been said most western cities are doing this.

And they are likely to keep on doing it, particularly those cities which adopted Mr. Fortin's scheme of spreading their debt obligations over the next thirty years. These could not do much borrowing if they wanted to, but a more encouraging fact is that their councils and taxpayers do not seem to want to.

The depression, ably assisted by Mr.

Fortin, have done the western cities one good turn. They have destroyed the notion that a city cannot lay a few blocks of paving or buy some cars for the police department without going in debt, issuing bonds, and paying the bill two or three times over.

January Will Decide

The Dominion Government having decided to make no special grants this winter for drought relief, the Provincial Government has reduced its grants to the cities in order to use part of the federal general relief contributions to take care of farm families whose crops withered away in the dry weather last summer. As a result Edmonton got only $72,900 in grants for September and October, instead of $106,000 which it would have received under the former arrangement. Calgary got $39,542 for September, instead of $63,000. If the provincial officials can induce Ottawa to make some concessions, the cities are promised more. But there is apparently no promise and no prospect that they will get as much as they got last year.

Since the distribution of relief began years ago as a three-way responsibility there has been a consistent and quite understandable effort on the part of federal, provincial and municipal authorities each to see that the other two paid their full shares of the cost. There seems, too, to have been a pretty constant suspicion on the part of each authority that the one below it was more willing to receive than to pay. The municipalities, being in the third order of magnitude, have had to take what the superior powers would be induced to give. The new scale of allowances to the cities bears the imprint of this suspicion. They are not going to get any more money than they actually and urgently need.

How much they will actually need is at present unguessable and can only be estimated. Naturally the estimates of the federal and provincial authorities do not err on the side of liberality. Whether they err in the other direction will be known later on. And should that be found to be the case, the allowances will have to be scaled all along the line, agreements and schedules having been made in the past as now contributing all they can afford to the contribution. If that does not meet the need, the Governments will be told about it and will have to make up the shortage. Men and women will not be allowed to go hungry or cold in January, whatever call for attention is being paid to those ultra-enthusiasts for whom the Government told us three weeks ago that Britain must go easy on the armament business lest it arouse misgivings in the minds of the friendly Fuehrer and the docile Duce.

Three Men to Die

Among the worst and most cowardly of crimes, crimes in recent years have been the robberies with violence and murders of aged people. These old folk, often living on old age pensions, dwell in isolated farm dwellings, far away from any possible help. The men who choose such people for the victims of their assaults are criminals of the most abominable kind. For this reason there will be pronounced sympathy for the three men who were sentenced to death by Mr. Justice Dymally at Dauphin on Wednesday. If there is value in character punishment, the example set in this case should be made to check similar outrages in the future.

"The Two Archdeacons"

(Recently the Venerable Archbishop Frederick George Scott, of Quebec, addressed the Trinity Memorial Church Educational Club. He was introduced by Trinity Memorial's Rector, the Venerable Archdeacon John M. Almond. The two Archdeacons are friends of long standing, both having been noted Great War padres. The day following the address at Trinity Memorial, Archdeacon Almond received from Archdeacon Scott the following poem.)

Two Archdeacons on the stage,
One dark and one is fair,
One is bold and one is hair,
Everyone with eyes can see
Each has got the C.M.G.
Both can duck and both can run,
So they thought the war was fun.
One writes poems, one does not,
One is Almond, one is Scott.
One has eyes with points above,
One looks always in a gleam.
Both wear gaiters now and then
To show they're of the same
Woe to Bishops should they dare
To provoke this damnable pair!
But I am not certain
When they slip the clasp of their
They will never, never go
Where they'll have to shelve on.

"Mein Kampf" — A Paris Best Seller

By Peter C. Rhodes — PARIS
Adolf Hitler's "Mein Kampf," the guide book of Germany's swift rise to the leading power of Continental Europe, has become the best seller in Paris as an inquiry into the country's future. But its author earns small personal income from his fame, and few disciples to his theories, for most of the editions sold in Paris are bootleg versions.

An inquiry of 20 leading bookshops revealed that demand for Hitler's bible has jumped overnight with the conclusion of the Munich accord and the virtual hegemony over Central Europe and the Danubian basin that went with it. The 10 best-selling books in the country are now contributing all they can afford to the contribution. If that does not meet the need, the Governments will be told about it and will have to make up the shortage.

Most of the French editions of "Mein Kampf" are sold in Paris. The book is being sold bearing the approval of the Fuehrer. In 1934 a real controversy arose over this point, when publishers tried to edit the unexpurgated translation of "Mein Kampf" as it is sold in Germany.

The French branch of the Munich publishers who edit Hitler's book sold the French publishers and won their case through the French courts. For some time no editions of Hitler's books appeared in France except in their abridged form, with all references to France as the traditional enemy of Germany.

Last year, as interest in Hitler's real aims grew and Frenchmen began to worry about the growth of the Third Reich, bootleg editions began to appear. Publishers got around the legal and financial difficulties by publishing the books which are ostensibly "Commentaries" on Hitler's original work. These editions are not intended to suppress the original work of the book devoted to France, these are played up, and often printed in bold-face italics, while sections devoted to internal German affairs are omitted.

Most of the books are only about one third as large as the original "Mein Kampf," and can thus be sold in very cheap and unexpensive editions. The demand, as soon as it was learned that comments concerning France were not suppressed, grew tremendously.

The courts have refused to ban these bootleg editions, finding that editors have legal technicalities in their favor. They also have decided that profits need not be given to the German publishers, as commentaries are not covered by international copyright legislation. The government has not interfered in any way with the sale of the books, and a certain leniency is obvious in the attitude of the French government toward the bootleggers. It is said that the government is interested in the man in the street knowing exactly what Hitler has said about France in his bible, even though it has been repeatedly asserted that Hitler has changed his views since writing the book and is only interested now in German expansion to the east.

Religion Day By Day

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

THE WOODS AT MIDNIGHT

During the July hot spell, which we conjure in Canadaashed, I went out to the porch of our cabin one midnight for the refreshing coolness of the evening breeze.

It was a spiritual experience. The stately trees stood clear in the moonlight, and their whirled branches spoke a message of repose. In the background of the seeming silence hummed the ceaseless insect chorus. About the lake were frogs, big and little, sang their throaty song. Occasionally a lone cricket and other bits of life, disturbed by causes unknown, would break out into protest. The waters lapped softly and rhythmically against the shores, and all about me was the splash of leaping fish.

All, all seemed evidence of the peace and permanence of Nature. I felt "in tune with the Infinite."

For all the quiet sequesteredness of Nature's great course of change for the beauty of the world, by night and by day to thank Thee, O Lord of all.

Read Isaiah 55:1-3.

First words about France seriously, in which he states that the type of government in France, being guided by the government toward inter-provincial trade, the ordinary Frenchman is genuinely worried.

WAKING THE XMAS TURKEY

Technology has invaded the realm of the Christmas turkey. Instead of stuffing the poor feathers by hand, a continuous belt system has been devised to do the job for the wholesale houses that trade in turkeys. The birds are suspended by their feet from a moving conveyor belt. As they pass on their way to a drying chamber, the large tail and body feathers are pulled out. After emerging from the drying chamber, the birds are dragged through a bath of hot paraffin wax. A cold water spray makes the wax harden. When the wax is peeled off, all the feathers come with it.

There's little waste with this method. The wax is melted up again, the feathers being whirled in a centrifuge which separates the wax from the feathers by centrifugal force. It means a few more workers for the scrap-heaps and a few less to buy turkeys at Christmas time.

A criminal case that has agitated circles in the state of Washington comes as a multiple warning against elderly men marrying young wives, against mixing liquor with jealousy and mingling in gay society. Especially is it a warning against the temptation to take the law into one's own hands.

When JEALOUSY BLINDS JUDGMENT in his mid-fifties was in the dock, together with a trio of lucky fellows he was hired to help kidnap a good-looking automobile salesman who had been over-friendly with the physician's 24-year-old wife. At drinking parties they had gone further than merely holding hands and burling maudlin sentiments. Having kidnapped the gay Leachman, the doctor was to have used a belt and a pair of pliers to inflict pain on his younger rival. One of the trio of helpers took credit for preventing the doctor from mutilating his victim.

What started as a lighthearted joke and a serious aspect when the four were arrested on kidnapping charges, for which the State of Washington has the death penalty, ended in slitting all four guilty, asked that the death penalty be imposed, so all four got off with imprisonment for life.

The lady of the case had her picture in the papers and is now qualified to accept offers for stage or screen appearances.

Fashions That Vary. My sympathy to Bunch of Love, Faithful Sparrow, Virtue Bloom, Adoring Meekness, etc., angle in Father Divine's "heaven" who ask leave to vote under their celestial names. A municipal official in England named Walldorff was given permission to change his name to Wally, because of the jokes he suffered.

Here's a new kind of coat that the law allows. Two Texas oil operators went into a restaurant and ordered meals costing 60 cents each. Each wanted to pay, and each wanted to leave a tip for the waitress, Beulah Hodgman and Rose Pink. Finally one said he'd give double what the other gave for a tip.

TWO OLIVEN HOLD A DEEL. The bill amounted with a $50 bill and the couple with the challenged man made it $120. The other had to put up $40. There were no objections from Beulah and Rose, who split the $300 tip between them. There were worse ways of getting rid of surplus money than by a tipping scheme. I mention this in case any Texas oil operator should be tempted to do the same.

APPEARANCES that way. So Bill, a giant of a chap in the mid-thirties, truck. On the other hand, he is a leather boot, corduroy pants and gaiters, drove me in at a wheezy old Ford truck. On the other hand, he is a leather boot, corduroy pants and gaiters, drove me in at a wheezy old Ford truck.

At the end of the trip he didn't wait for me to offer him a couple of dollars and then he left, rattled quickly away. Next time I saw the lawyer I asked if I should leave "Bill" a few dollars.

"No," he said smilingly. "Bill's worth between three and four million dollars." The ladies in the limousine were so wide and fast. So perhaps the gala in the filling stations had better smile on all the customers. You never know when you entertain angelic unguineas these uncertain days.

"According to these statistics, we must be about the only family in the whole country without a car."

An Invitation

Editor, Bulletin: Regarding two letters in The Bulletin of the 25th and 26th instants, re "Juvenile Crime." Both writers, I notice, use very big words and one even quotes from Shakespeare. Both writers favor the birch for juvenile offenders and one would like to see the parents about a little punishment. They have nothing else to offer for treating juvenile crime. In the Eastwood district we have a remedy, Oh, no, not the birch, big words of quotations from our favorite poet, but just plain Canadian common sense and a little effort. An invitation is extended to the writers of the two previous letters.

On This Date

By FRED WILLIAMS

Twenty-one years ago today, the people of Canada, and the world, were reading with horror and sympathy the details of the havoc caused the previous day at Halifax, when, as the result of a collision between two munitions-laden ships, the greatest disaster in Canadian history took place. The story of the tragedy has often been told, but the memory of that day and those which followed will never be forgotten by those who were in its midst. Boys and girls have since grown to maturity, but will never forget the terror. Two thousand lives were never rebuilt, and even today the money loss exceeded $200,000. The work of restoration was soon begun, a new Halifax was constructed in the stricken area, but even today, after 21 years, one can find traces of the havoc of that day, for in some cases the sites were never rebuilt, and in some cases the work of restoration was not completed.

Where Hitler Enns

Editor, Bulletin: Thank you for your leading article of Nov. 30. I think you have voiced the opinion of many Canadians who have an interest in the Jewish question. Your sympathy with the Jewish refugees.

Every person of a kindly generous heart who has a love of justice and humanity, should try to eradicate from the earth this inhuman prejudice against the Jews.

The Jews have a very great history, and their culture is immeasurable service to mankind. Hitler defies historical facts and defies the Jewish people. He carries out his plan. He accuses them of a lack of idealism and cowardice—this is the worst of the fact that in the Great War thousands of Jews laid down their lives for their various countries—and as for being without ideals, isn't it just the idealism that has kept them going throughout centuries of oppression?

Hitler's statements are totally devoid of truth. Against such misrepresentation of facts one can only say: "The Jews are at least make known the facts we know to be true about the Jews we actually know personally. I have liked and admired many of them."

BLIND DATES

The less you can see on a blind date, the better.
The high point of a blind date is just before you are introduced. The low point is just after.
Blind dates are very exciting, because there is always the chance you will run across one of your old friends while you are out.
One of the things you risk on a blind date is saying the wrong thing by mistake. If you are not careful, it may sound as though you'd like to have another date.
Falling in love at first sight is one of the rarest things possible. So is a Ming vase, and it is apt to last a great deal longer.

THE BIBLE DOES NOT SAY ANGELS HAVE WINGS

Nowhere in the Bible does it say anything about angels having wings yet nearly every picture of an angel is shown with its wings spread. The idea probably has arisen from the idea of angels coming out of the sky to the earth, and wings seemed the only logical way for such aerial travel to be carried out. So don't let your friends say you are "spreading wings" next time you are extra good.

MEN HAVE CAME LESS THAN WOMEN? RIGHT OR WRONG?

Answer: Wrong. Both men and women have 12 pairs. The belief that women had more came from the Biblical story that woman was created with a rib taken from man.

HARTNETT STARTS OVERHILLING CHICAGO CUBS

Bruins Exchange Players With Giants

Cubs Swap Jurgens, O'Dea and Demaree for Giants' Hank Leiber, Gus Mancuso and Dick Bartell

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—Manager Gabby Hartnett, in a move to rebuild the National League champion Chicago Cubs, swapped off Shortstop Billy Jurgens, Catcher Ken O'Dea and Outfielder Frank Demaree Tuesday to New York Giants for hard-hitting Outfielder Hank Leiber, Catcher Gus Mancuso and Shortstop Dick Bartell.

The deal was completed with the Giants' Bill Terry here last night on the eve of the 37th annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

Throughout the day Terry huddled with a number of delegates, giving rise to the possibility the Giants are formulating a working agreement with the National Association of the Southern Association.

MAY COACH GIANTS
The rumor wheel also said Frankie Frisch, former St. Louis Cardinal manager, was slated either to take over management of New Orleans or join the Giants as coach.

Maen "Kiki" Cuyler, veteran major league outfielder who was with Brooklyn last season, was signed to one-year contract to manage Chattanooga Lookouts, but any terms were not announced.

EXPLANATION OF TODAY'S CARTOON

FIRST ACT OF A KING: King Henry VI (1441-1471) became King of England at the age of nine months. His first official act was the appointment signed with the king's thumbprint of Dame Alice Butler as his own nurse "to attend our king with license to chastise us from time to time." This is the only infant in history who selected his own nurse to administer punishment with the victor's own application.

HOCKEY RULES ON GOAL AREA ARE CLARIFIED

Clarification of the National Hockey League rule regarding the goal area is issued by the league.

The rule dealing with interference with goalkeepers, Campbell claims, has no effect until the puck enters the goal area. If a player is on the attacking side or is striking in the goal, it is not interference with the goalie. The play should be stopped and a free off offered in a neutral zone.

The other interpretation requires that a defending player in attempting to clear the puck deflections off the stick, hands or body from the goal then it would be considered an offside play.

Other Lehigh rules contributed to the confusion of the goal area. The Lehigh rules are among the first nine highest point-getters.

CALGARY, Dec. 7.—Lethbridge Maple Leaf marksmen dominated the early scoring race in the Alberta Senior Hockey League as Bobby Kirkpatrick and Kenny Stewart took the one and two positions after last night's triumph at Olds.

Lure of Cash Proves Too Much For Larry MacPhail

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—The lure of cash proved too much Tuesday for the long-honored argument about broadcasting among New York's three major baseball clubs.

A Geneva bid of something like $750,000 from Larry MacPhail of Brooklyn Dodgers, to average the 14-year agreement, which would broadcast the Dodgers boys would broadcast all their games, both at home and away, through the 1939 and 1940 seasons.

That left Yankees and Giants pretty well in the air about their future course. The assumption in baseball circles was that they would follow Brooklyn's lead. All other clubs in both leagues have been broadcasting their games some time.
